Lenders to Talk to Struggling Homeowners at FREE Foreclosure Prevention Workshop

SAN ANTONIO, Texas—NeighborWorks America, a national housing nonprofit, will host a free foreclosure prevention workshop on Tuesday, June 10. The workshop will provide at-risk borrowers an opportunity to speak directly to their lending institutions about homeownership preservation. On-site counselors will inform attendees about available resources and options.

This open forum is a collaboration among the HOPE NOW Alliance, the Texas Foreclosure Prevention Task Force and NeighborWorks America. It is part of a national tour aimed at giving struggling homeowners face time with their lenders and financial counselors to develop a possible loan modification or financial plan to avoid foreclosure.

WHAT: Free foreclosure prevention workshop.

WHO: NeighborWorks America, the HOPE NOW Alliance, the Texas Foreclosure Prevention Task Force, the City of San Antonio, Neighborhood Housing Services of San Antonio and local housing counseling agencies, Countrywide, EMC Mortgage, Chase, GMAC Homecomings Financials and more.

WHEN: Tuesday, June 10
2 – 8 p.m.

WHERE: Live Oak Civic Center
8101 Pat Booker Road
Live Oak, TX 78233

DETAILS: This event is open to the public. Free parking is available. Homeowners should bring all income, expense and loan documentation and expect the process to take approximately one hour.

VISUALS: Hundreds of homeowners are expected to attend and b-roll footage of homeowners and servicers at previous events is available upon request.

NOTE: Reporters are welcome to attend; however, to protect homeowners' privacy, cameras will only be allowed outside the venue. Representatives of the media are welcome to interview homeowners as they leave the event.
